MEMORANDUM TO: See Attached Distribution List

FROM: J. Phillip Jordan
Special Assistant to the Attorney General*J. Phillip Jordan*SUBJECT: Presidential Request for Inventory of Lawyers

The President has requested the Attorney General to determine the number of lawyers in the Government and the functions they are performing.

The Department of Justice has completed an inventory of its lawyers, the results of which are attached.

The purpose of this memorandum is to request that you conduct an inventory of all lawyers in your organization, and send to the Attorney General a report of the inventory modeled on the attached Department of Justice report. In the interest of uniformity, please adhere to the following rules in preparing your report:

(1) The President is interested primarily in the number of persons performing "lawyer-like" functions--litigating, preparing legal memoranda; giving legal advice in the Government or to persons outside the Government; drafting statutes, rules, or regulations. As a general rule, an individual will be a lawyer under this definition if his or her position is classified in one of the following series:

GS-904 Law Clerk
GS-905 General Attorney
GS-935 Administrative Law Judge
GS-1222 Patent Attorney

If you have personnel performing lawyer-like functions who are classified in any other series, include those persons in the inventory. (In addition, please identify the series and the number of individuals in it.)

(2) Base your report on the pay period ending April 9, 1977.

(3) To the extent possible, include in your report all of the elements found in the Justice Department report: an organization chart of your organization; a brief introductory section stating the total number of lawyers in your organization and giving any further general information about them that you consider particularly important; an overview of the number of lawyers in each office, division, section, or agency of your organization (preferably on a computer print-out); and a narrative section describing the functions of the lawyers in your organization, broken down by office, division, section, or agency.

(4) In the narrative section, be as succinct as possible but as lengthy as is necessary to give a fairly clear picture of the major functions of the group of lawyers under discussion.

(5) Use plain white paper, 8 1/2 x 11, throughout the report.

(6) Address the report to the Attorney General, but to the attention of J. Phillip Jordan, Special Assistant to the Attorney General.

Please designate one person, preferably someone in your immediate office, to be in charge of this inventory for your organization. Please be sure that your secretary has the name of this person so that I could contact him or her if necessary.

Please try to complete this inventory as soon as possible, but in any event no later than Monday, May 9.

Contact: J. Phillip Jordan (Office of the Attorney General) at 739-5137, or Karen Lee (Office of Management and Finance) at 739-3111

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE
ATTORNEY INVENTORY

As of April 9, 1977, the Department of Justice employed 3,608 full-time permanent attorneys, out of a total full-time permanent employee complement of 51,322. This means that attorneys comprise approximately 7% of the Department's full-time permanent staff.

Of the 3,608 attorneys, approximately 3,300--or 92%-- are primarily engaged, either directly or in a supporting role, in the trial and appeal of lawsuits. The remaining 300 attorneys supervise divisions or offices, render legal advice, consult with Congress or other Executive departments and agencies concerning legislation, and--to a quite limited extent--draft and interpret rules and regulations.

FUNCTIONS
FULL-TIME ATTORNEYS AT THE

OFFICE OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL

Number: 8

This number includes:

- (1) the Attorney General;
- (2) the Associate Attorney General, an Executive Level appointee who performs many of the functions previously assigned to the Deputy Attorney General (judicial and U. S. Attorney selection, management of the litigating divisions, etc.);
- (3) the Counselor to the Attorney General, who handles the Attorney General's scheduling and monitors the work of the Special Assistants;
- (4) a second Counselor to the Attorney General, retained from the previous Administration to assist in transition; and
- (5) four Special Assistants to the Attorney General, who perform special projects as assigned by the Attorney General or the Associate Attorney General.

OFFICE OF THE DEPUTY ATTORNEY GENERAL

Number: 18

Immediate Office of the Deputy Attorney General

Number: 3

This number includes the Deputy Attorney General, an Associate Deputy Attorney General, and a Special Assistant to the Deputy Attorney General.

Executive Assistant to the Deputy Attorney General

Approved For Release 2002/01/08 : CIA-RDP83-01004R000100160003-4

Number: 2

The Executive Assistant, and his assistant, manage attorney employment throughout the Department, and assist the Associate Attorney General in judicial selection.

Freedom of Information and Privacy Appeals Unit

Number: 13

These attorneys process administrative appeals arising under both the Freedom of Information Act and the Privacy Act of 1974, which includes the preparation of recommendations to the Deputy Attorney General on whether to ratify or reverse a decision by a Department component to withhold information; provide legal staff support to the Department Review Committee on classification review and special projects; and consult with personnel of the Freedom of Information and Privacy Units of other Department components on overall policies with respect to these Acts.

OFFICE OF THE SOLICITOR GENERAL

Number: 19

The Solicitor General conducts and supervises all aspects of Government litigation in the Supreme Court of the United States; passes upon every case in which a decision is rendered in any court against the United States to determine whether the Government will appeal; and decides whether the United States should file a brief as amicus curiae in any appellate court. The staff attorneys prepare petitions, briefs and memoranda; review petitions, briefs and memoranda prepared by the legal division appellate sections; and conduct oral argument of Government cases in the Supreme Court.

Number: 3

The Office is responsible for ensuring that Department employees perform their duties in accordance with the law, Department regulations, orders, and applicable professional standards of conduct. Attorneys receive and review any information or allegations of misconduct by Department employees, conduct inquiries into such allegations either directly or by referral to an appropriate Department organization for investigation, and prepare reports and recommendations to the Attorney General on the results of the inquiries and any specific action which should be taken. The attorneys also evaluate the activities of inspection units within Department organizations and make recommendations on any needed changes.

OFFICE OF MANAGEMENT AND FINANCE

Number: 6

Office of the Assistant Attorney General for Administration

Number: 4

These attorneys advise the Assistant Attorney General for Administration, his deputies, and the staff directors on administrative, personnel, and management issues, and on legislative matters relating to administration and management policy. Department-wide responsibilities include rendering advice on Equal Employment Opportunity matters; Privacy Act matters (except access determinations); Freedom of Information Act materials; and the legality of using available appropriations. The legal staff also prepares requests to the Comptroller General for decisions.

Offices, Boards and Divisions Support Services

Number: 2

These attorneys design and develop automated data processing systems to support the Department's litigating activities, e.g., JURIS (Justice Retrieval and Inquiry System) and ACCSYS (Automated Caseload and Collections System).

OFFICE FOR IMPROVEMENTS IN THE ADMINISTRATION OF JUSTICE

Number: 14

Three-fourths of the attorney work involves the development of policy and preparation of legislation in the civil and criminal areas--the proposed new Federal criminal code; handgun legislation; sentencing reform legislation; initiatives in the area of white collar crime; a judicial reform package to alter the jurisdiction of Federal district courts, provide for informal dispute settlement mechanisms, and restructure the Federal courts of appeals. Two attorneys work full time in the Investigation Review Unit monitoring FBI compliance with investigative guidelines. One spends full time in the drafting and refining of such guidelines. Another acts as consumer affairs officer for the Department. The attorneys regularly are assigned to investigate, prosecute, or handle the appeals in criminal cases where they have particular expertise or where another organization of the Department is overburdened and seeks assistance. They also help develop mid- and long-range research projects to be carried out by specialists retained under contract by the Attorney General.

OFFICE OF LEGAL COUNSEL

Number: 17

The principal duty of the Office is to assist the Attorney General in his function as legal adviser to the President and Executive branch agencies. Staff attorneys draft the formal opinions of the Attorney General; draft informal opinions signed by the Assistant Attorney General or his deputies; review all Executive Orders and proclamations for form and legality; review various other matters which require the President's formal approval; review all proposed orders of the Attorney General, and all regulations requiring his approval; coordinate the work of the Department with respect to treaties, Executive agreements and international organizations; and perform a variety of special assignments referred to the Office by the Attorney General, the Deputy Attorney General, or the Associate Attorney General. The legal staff does not handle litigated matters directly but does assist the litigating divisions in particular cases when asked.

Number: 8

These attorneys monitor legislative developments affecting the Department as a whole; develop and draft legislative initiatives; and coordinate the Department's testimony before Congress, and its responses to Congressional inquiries.

THE PARDON ATTORNEY

Number: 4 (Office of the Pardon Attorney, and Staff)

The Pardon Attorney receives and reviews all petitions for Executive clemency, initiates the necessary investigations and prepares the Attorney General's recommendations to the President. The Pardon Attorney and the Deputy Pardon Attorney necessarily spend a significant portion of their time responding to written or telephonic inquiries from and meeting with members of Congress, the news media, clemency applicants and their relatives, the public, and Federal, State and foreign officials.

U. S. PAROLE COMMISSION

Number: 5 (Office of the Chairman and Kansas City Regional Office)

These attorneys provide legal advice and counsel to the Commission and to U. S. Attorneys on problems arising from parole, supervision, and revocation decisions, and administrative appeal decisions; draft regulations implementing legislation and the Commission's policies; prepare legislative comments and proposals, and participate in the drafting of treaties and implementing legislation for the exchange of prisoners and parolees with foreign governments; review and prepare responses to requests under the Freedom of Information and Privacy Acts; and participate in the training of Commission staff and U. S. Probation Officers to ensure compliance with parole statutes, regulations and due process standards.

Number: 18 (Office of the Chairman, Board Members, and Staff)

The Board's primary function is producing authoritative case law, in the form of formal Board decisions, interpreting the immigration laws and formulating guidelines for the exercise of administrative discretion in deportation, exclusion, and visa petition cases. The Board reviews formal orders of District Directors and Special Inquiry Officers (Immigration Judges) and has the power to make de novo determinations of law and fact. The 16 staff attorneys, under the supervision of the Chief Attorney Examiner, are responsible for the preparation of proposed Board orders involving legal questions or factual issues. After reviewing the record and briefs, the staff attorney undertakes any needed research and prepares a proposed order reflecting his/her analysis of the issues and recommendation as to disposition. The proposed order is reviewed by the Board members who vote on accepting it as a final order.

COMMUNITY RELATIONS SERVICE

Number: 2 (Office of the Director)

These attorneys assist field personnel in their dealings with the Federal judiciary; assist in the resolution of CRS personnel complaints prior to formal action; provide legal counsel for desegregation cases where CRS has been ordered by the court to monitor the implementation of desegregation plans; analyze and interpret legislative and judicial developments in areas that may affect CRS program activities.

Number: 422

Generally speaking, the Division performs three types of work: antitrust investigation, litigation, and enforcement (the Division does virtually all its own antitrust litigating without the assistance of the U. S. Attorneys' Offices); acting as an advocate for competition before regulatory agencies and within the Administration; and preparing business review letters in response to requests for the Division's enforcement intentions regarding proposed business ventures. In addition, Division attorneys spend some time in responding to Freedom of Information and Privacy Act requests and in preparing reports on pending legislation.

Office of the Assistant Attorney General

Number: 5

This number includes the Assistant Attorney General, three Deputy Attorneys General, and one Special Assistant. This office is responsible for general supervision and direction over all of the Division's activities.

Director of Operations

Number: 6

This office supervises all antitrust enforcement litigation and investigation by both the Washington sections and the regional field offices.

Administrative Section

Number: 1

This office is responsible for preparing the Division's budget and assuring fiscal accountability.

Appellate Section

Number: 16

This section prepares memoranda to the Solicitor General either supporting or opposing requests for appeals, prepares briefs for the Courts of Appeals and the Supreme Court, and presents oral argument in the Courts of Appeals.

Evaluation Section

Number: 25

This section is responsible for reviewing proposed filings and business review letters to assure the soundness of the legal theories underlying the proposed action. It prepares analyses of significant antitrust cases that discuss their implications for future antitrust enforcement.

Foreign Commerce Section

Number: 18

This section investigates and litigates antitrust cases involving the foreign commerce of the United States. It acts as an advocate for competition before the International Trade Commission, within the Administration in rendering advice to the Department of the Treasury and the Special Trade Representative on matters concerning foreign trade, and before international organizations concerned with trade and business problems.

General Litigation Section

Number: 21

This section is responsible for investigating and litigating antitrust cases dealing with a variety of commodities or services.

Judgments Section

Number: 17

This section is responsible for enforcing judgments obtained by the Division, either by consent decree, or in a litigated case. In addition, it supervises and may participate directly in the negotiation of consent decrees.

Public Counsel Section

Number: 30

This section is responsible for antitrust enforcement regarding surface transportation, nuclear energy and electrical utilities, intercoastal shipping, and natural gas. It frequently appears as a competitive advocate before the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

Special Litigation Section

Number: 36

This section is responsible for antitrust enforcement with regard to several commodities and services, including computers, drugs, health and legal services, and electronic products.

Special Trial Section

Number: 22

This section is responsible for antitrust enforcement regarding several commodities and services, including automobiles and auto repair, copper, farm equipment, and machinery.

Trial Section

Number: 24

This section is responsible for antitrust enforcement regarding several commodities and services, such as accounting, insurance, steel, and gasoline.

Field Offices

Number: 141

Eight field offices are responsible for antitrust enforcement in the regions which they serve. The field offices are located in the following cities: Atlanta (13 attorneys); Chicago (23 attorneys); Cleveland (16 attorneys); Dallas (8 attorneys); Los Angeles (18 attorneys); New York (31 attorneys); Philadelphia (14 attorneys); and San Francisco (18 attorneys).

Approved For Release 2002/01/08 : CIA-RDP83-01004R000100160003-4

Patent Section

Number: 18

This section is responsible for preventing the anti-competitive procurement or use of patents.

Consumer Affairs Section

Number: 14

This section is responsible for supervising litigation by several federal agencies under consumer protection statutes such as the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, the Hazardous Substances Act, the Consumer Product Safety Act, and the Federal Trade Commission Act. These responsibilities involve advising the agencies, aiding in the preparation of pleadings, reviewing proposed cases, and cooperating with U. S. Attorneys in the trial and appeals of these matters.

Special Regulated Industries Section

Number: 19

This section is responsible for antitrust enforcement in the banking, securities, and communications industries. It frequently appears before the Securities and Exchange Commission and the Federal Communication Commission as an advocate for competition.

Policy Planning and Legislative Office

Number: 9

This office is responsible for preparing and assisting in the enactment of legislative proposals, training and assisting staff attorneys, administering a state antitrust grant program, and planning the most efficient allocation of our antitrust resources.
